Napoleon's Field Telegraph.

The Paris correspondent of the London Globe obtains from a Brescia letter of June 24th, a fact which has not hitherto transpired, concerning the scientific appliances of electricity to war purposes. It would appear that the remarkable precision and unity of the French evolutions were accomplished by a quite novel sort of flying aide-de-camp. From each corps, once in position, a horseman rode off to the next division, unrolling on his rapid course a light wire, which no time was lost in adapting to a field apparatus; and the process was repeated all along the French line of twelve miles. Hence the movement of the whole army was known and regulated like clock work, "from dawn to dewy eve," on that decisive day. This arrangement had been planned in Paris, and a supply of gutta serena covered metal thread forwarded with secrecy and dispatch. It was already known that a special telegraphic corps operated in the rear of the Allies, and laid wires as fast as advances were made. M. Lait is the Chief Engineer, and the first Frenchman who entered Novara, while the Austrians were en route yet out of it, was M. Granthier, of that staff, who set up his box and telegraphed the details of the retreating corps at the moment they were outside the gates. Lonati, Montecchiario and Castiglione, were in instant communication with Brescia and Milan when evacuated by the foe on the 24th.

Naturalized Citizens.

The official declaration of the Administration with regard to the rights of naturalized citizens has been made public. The State Department has addressed a dispatch to the American Minister at Berlin in relation to the case of a naturalized citizen of the United States, a native of Hanover, who, upon his return, was compelled to perform military service in the Hanoverian army. The instructions to the American Minister are definite. Our Government refuses to recognize the right of any foreign Power to punish any naturalized citizen of the United States for misdemeanors which were not complete at the moment of his expatriation; as complete that he might have been tried and punished therefor at the time of his departure. With this single exception, a naturalized citizen returning to his native country, returns as an American citizen, and as such is placed under the protection of our laws. With respect to the requirement of future military service, our Government denies the right to impose such service upon the expatriated subject after he shall have become naturalized as a citizen of the United States. It is added that any infringement of these regulations will involve the offending nation in serious difficulties with the United States.

The Sportsmen Club of Monroe county have determined to enforce the game laws most strictly. They caused the arrest of a man who brought a pair of woodcock into Rochester and offered them for sale. He was fined $50 and costs. This is a right course, and we hope it will be persevered in until the remedy has cured the evil.

THE SICKLES RECONCILIATION AT WASHINGTON.—The correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says: The news of the reconciliation between Mr. and Mrs. Sickles has created, as you may well suppose, intense excitement in this city. I feel sure comments upon this event, which seems to have taken all parties by surprise.

CHOLERA.—The following extract from the latter of a telegram to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland presents a very simple and he says, efficient preventive of cholera as well as a remedy of great power.

The preventative is simple; a teaspoonful of powdered charcoal taken three or four times a week in a cup of coffee or other liquid in the morning.

When attacked with cholera, a mixture of an ounce of charcoal, an ounce of lemon-juice, and an ounce of brandy or other spirits, may be given as follows, after being well shaken: a teaspoonful every five minutes. In half an hour I have known this effectually to relieve and stay the disease. As the patient becomes better, the mixture may be given at long intervals. I have known a patient in the blue stage and collapsed perfectly recovered in a few hours.

The charcoal was tried as a preventive on a large plantation in the Mauritius, and not a single individual out of eight hundred was attacked with cholera.

THE BARRE IN THE CANAL.—The Rochester Union has intelligence from the Canal break at Port Jervis, to the effect that it will take ten days to make the necessary repairs. The Union adds:

Boats from the West are detained in this city, and already upwards of fifty are tied up. The forwarders appear to be discouraged. What little business they find to do is done at such a disadvantage as to afford no profits.

The following table of distances may be serviceable to watchers of the war:

Turin to Paris, 550 miles; to Vienna, 450; to Milan, 81; to Parma, 135; to Florence, 200; to Geneva, 108; to Alexandria, 50; Pavia, 78; Mortara, 53; Verelli, 41; Novara, 55; Alessandria, 30; Vercelli, 30; Novara, 28; Milan, 42; Mortara, 24; Pavia, 33; Voghera, 90; Genoa, 37 miles.

Friendship Crime.

The Detroit papers have the particulars of the murder of a little girl, by her own father, in Nankin, Wayne county. There appears to have been no provocation for the deed except such as was furnished by the disabled nature of the man who committed it. The family were at supper, and the woman refused to go to town with him the next day, as she suspected that he would, with his companion, get drunk and desert her in the streets. He became enraged, jumped up, and got the gun, saying that he would kill her. She said, "Oh, no, you won't," whereupon he raised his gun level with his breast, and pulled the trigger. She dodged back on seeing his intention, and the charge blew out the brains of the little girl sitting beside her. She exclaimed, "You have killed Mary," to which he answered "D—n you, I will kill you too," and rushed at her to beat her brains out with the butt of the gun. The first few blows broke the gun in pieces, when she caught up the bleeding and insensible child, and ran away from the house in the direction of a neighbor's. He also left the house. The woman, scarcely able to walk in consequence of her injuries, carried the child some distance, and then laid it alongside a log, and went to the next house, where she gave the alarm, and prevailed upon the man of the house to go after the child. He did so, and found it, also meeting the murderer, whom he accused having killed the child. Felton answered that he did not care anything about the child—that he did not mean to kill it, but meant to kill his wife. The neighbors were gathered in a short time, but all were bewildered and at a loss what to do. A guard was kept upon Felton, who did not manifest any inclination to escape, but stood around with his hands in his pockets, in a surly and morose mood. Felton was a well-to-do farmer, and the crime was caused by whiskey.

Mexico.

The details of Mexican news, as brought to New-Orleans by the W. H. Webb, confirm the telegraphic outline. It was in deference to Mr. McLane's remonstrances that ROBLEZ released the specie conductors, not, however before he had obtained a bribe of $40,000 from the Vera Cruz merchants. The tendencies of the Miramon faction were still more distinctly in favor of SANTA ANNA. There has been no further military operations. General Comon who headed the Conservative expedition into Oaxaca is reported as dead.

The other day, on the Canada side of Suspension Bridge, a Canadian Custom House official had an altercation and fight with a Yankee boy, and both went into court for a settlement. After hearing proofs, the justice announced the verdict to be a fine of 7 dollars for the Canadian and 5 dollars for the Yankee. With this plan of disposing justice, we think law suits for assault and battery would diminish.
